WHAT IS A PANTOMIME?

A Pantomime is a theatrical show, for the whole family, that involves music, topical jokes, and slapstick comedy and is based on a fairy tale or folk tale, usually produced around Christmas.

A pantomime is a participatory form of theatre, so the actors will be asking for help from the audience (to cast spells for example). But don't worry, you won't have to get up on the stage!

If you would rather listen than participate, that's okay too!

What is the story of this Pantomime?

The Hall Family Panto is back, this time blending the story of Cinderella and classic teen movies of the 80's, with a dash of the traditional Newfoundland Mummers play mixed in.

It's the night before the big dance and Buttons and his friends must help Cinderella get to the ball – but the Old Hag has plans of her own and you know she's going to do whatever it takes to stop her.

What is a Relaxed Performance?

A relaxed performance is offered to anyone who would benefit from a more casual theatre environment. This is including (but not limited to) patrons with Autism Spectrum Disorder, a sensory processing disorder, or a learning disability. Everyone is welcome to come to Relaxed Performances.

This holiday run of Seal Slippers will feature 2 Relaxed Performances, on Saturday December 14 at 2 pm, and Saturday December 21 at 2 pm.

A relaxed performance features adjustment to the technical parts of the show to lower the sensory information in the space. This will include:

- The house lights being left on at half – so it is easier to come and go from the theatre for trips to the washroom and breaks in the second space!
- The sound effects and music are set at a lower level – so it is easier on the ears!
- The lights on the stage are set to a lower level – so it is easier on the eyes!

Rory is BUTTONS aka DUCKIE!

(and Rory is the Playwright!)

Rory Lambert is an actor and writer who holds a BFA from Sir Wilfred Grenfell College and an Apprenticeship from the Hippodrome State Theatre, Gainesville, Florida. He is most recognizable as the ten-year host of WorkplaceNL and Rogers TV's Who Wants to Save a Life and, more recently, from Anthony Insurance's newest ad campaign. Rory is the Artistic Director of the newly formed King's Point Theatre Project, producing new and exciting theatre in Central Newfoundland. As a writer, Rory has had works produced at Rising Tide Theatre (Trinity), Rebel Island Theatre (Carbonear), Worlds End Theatre (Fogo), The Victoria Playhouse (PEI), the Grand Bank Theatre Festival and, of course, RCA's 2015 holiday family panto, Tangly. He is overjoyed to step back into the zany world of pantomime; a place where he feels right at home.

Una is SALMONELLA!

Una Hill-McMullin originally hails from Wolfville, Nova Scotia but after completing her theatre degree at Grenfell in 2016, she chose to make Corner Brook her home, and now – St. John's. As a recent transplant to the city, Una is beyond thrilled to say that Seal Slippers marks her first appearance on the St. John's theatre scene. During the summers she works with the Gros Morne Theatre Festival in Cow Head where she has taken on some of her favourite projects including: Tempting Providence (dir. Jillian Keiley and Adam Brake), Our Frances (dir. Jeff Pitcher), Newfoundland Vinyl (dir. Allison Crowe and Adam Brake), and Fly Me to the Moon (dir. Jeff Pitcher). She is very excited for this show and hopes it's everything you want in a Christmas panto and more! Enjoy!

How long is the show?

Seal Slippers will run for approximately 90 minutes, with a 15-minute intermission about halfway through the show.

An intermission allows the actors and technical team to have a break during the show.

An intermission allows the audience to have a washroom break, refill drinks at the bar, and stretch their legs.

You can come and hang out here – in the Cox & Palmer Second Space – during the intermission!

A member of the technical team will ring the bell when it is time to head back up to the theatre so the show can resume!

What kind of sounds can I expect during the show?

Seal Slippers features lots of music and singing. The songs featured are a mix of popular 80s tunes and Christmas favourites. Don't hesitate to sing along and dance in your seat!

There will also be some sound effects to accompany the story. Such as:

- Thunder claps to accompany The Hag
 - Bird / seagull calls
- Sounds of Pterry the Pterodactyl
 - A mine explosion

The sound will be at a lower volume during the Relaxed Performances.

The actors will also be asking for audience participation for casting spells, and boo'ing the Hag. The folks sitting near you might respond loudly, but it will only be for a few moments.

What will the lighting be like during the show?

Seal Slippers will feature lots of colourful lights on the stage, which will change as the show goes on.

There may be times when the stage goes completely dark, and there may be times when bright lights flash across the stage. These moments will not last long.

Everyone is invited to grab a magic glow-stick wand for the show, so they will be a-glowin' for the duration of the show.

This show also features Black Lights – which will make white clothing glow in the dark!

What will the costumes look like?

Costumes are the clothes the actors wear when they are “in character”. This includes everything the actors wear from head to toe, and sometimes even wigs!

The Seal Slippers costumes are calling us to remember what folks dressed like in the 1980s – an iconic decade in fashion and pop culture – with a Newfoundland twist.

Can you think of what the actors might wear to help the audience recognize the decade?

Another element of the show is Properties or “Props” which are items that the actors use further help the audience enter the world of the play.

Sometimes Props can be found, and sometimes they need to be built; which is why we have two folks working on this department!

For example – in this show, Cinderella’s magical carriage will have to be built, because of its size.

But most things, like the Prince’s suitcase, is a Prop that can be found.

It will be fun to make a list of all the Props you see in the show!

The Seal Slippers set will include:

- Lockers & a Basketball Net
- Christmas Trees of various size
 - A Hearth for Cinderella
- A Disco ball & colourful lights for the ball!

In conversation with the Playwright: Rory Lambert

What to you like about writing Pantomimes?

I love the freedom that comes with writing the Hall Family Panto. I love taking a fairy tale or folk tale, researching it to find those connections to our province, adapting it and molding it and continuing to edit and collaborate with artists in the rehearsal hall. The pace at which it needs to be performed is nearly the same in which it needs to be created, with ideas and influences flying left, right and centre (stage, that is). My major influences are the Marx Brothers, The Three Stooges, Laurel and Hardy, Abbott and Costello and the pantomime is a perfect fit for both slapstick comedy and wit. Mostly I love the freedom to throw as many bad jokes at the wall and see which ones stick; the funny thing is, they don't turn out to be so bad after all.

Most of all, I love the idea of creating a piece of theatre that is multi-generational in appeal. Telling a story that can be enjoyed by a four-year-old and an eighty-four year old. Bringing together a full house of young and old and hearing them laugh together. What could be better than that?

In conversation with the Director: Nicole Rousseau

What was a fun challenge of directing this show?

It's a pretty fun challenge to make Seal Slippers a play for the whole family to enjoy. That means you have to keep multiple generations and ages in mind when you look at the themes and the comedy in the play. Is there something for the little kids? Will another joke engage the teens? Will their Parents get caught up in the nostalgia of the 80's and will the Grandparents be drawn in by the familiar storylines and traditions of a holiday theatrical entertainment? Most importantly, I look for the points of common ground: will there be times when the whole family can laugh together? That's such a fun discovery, and brings a real sense of achievement, when I look around and see audiences of all ages recognizing a certain theme or idea expressed within the play.

What is your favourite part about being an actor?

I love exploring the actions and feelings of someone other than myself. I also love rehearsal! I love seeing people's processes, and how the show comes together.

What do you love about your character in the Pantomime?

I love that Cinderella has such a massive capacity to love. She is simultaneously fierce and vulnerable. She doesn't shy away from her feelings. She also has an incredible wardrobe!

What is your favourite part of the holiday season?

I love looking at the lights on my Christmas tree, and eating non-stop snacks!

What do you like about Pantomimes?

I grew up as a kid in England, where Pantomimes are a holiday tradition. I can still remember seeing them - I love the jokes, the mixing of different fairytales with modern references thrown in, as well. I'm so glad that Rory and Nicole decided to bring Pantos to St. John's, with just enough of a Newfoundland twist, but still true to the English tradition!

What do you like about playing the Dame?

This is my second chance to play the Dame in the Hall Panto and I'm loving it - again! She's similar to the Widow Rhubarb in Tangly, but has some different aspects, as well. I don't want to give too much away, but getting to transform into Cinderella's Fairy Godmother is a highlight, so far!

What's your favourite part of the holiday season?

The holiday season for me is all about family. My family and all my in-laws basically move into my mother and father in law's house for the entire Christmas period. It's the one time of the year where we all get to spend some quality time with one another.
